

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

Professor Elisha Gray, of telephone fame, has accepted the Chair of Dynamic Electricity at Oberlin College.

According to The Picayune, the Colored Normal Institute in New-Orleans is more liberally sustained by private subscription than is the corresponding school for whites.

Akron, Ohio, claims a gain of 5 per cent upon last year in its school population. The increase was entirely among children of foreign nationalities, their being an actual loss of 177 in the number of those of American parentage.

Trouble has been occasioned in the Board of Education of Detroit, Mich., by the "surprestion" application of coal to his personal use," by some unknown member of the Board. The chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the matter has reported his intention to "examine the character and antecedents of the whole twenty-sixty, characters, and as they are a pretty scaly lot it may take some time."

The annual income from that portion of the Peabody educational fund appropriated to the State of Louisiana, has been diminished from twelve to six thousand dollars by the decrease in the rate of interest on Government bonds in which it was invested. This income is now to be devoted to the support of the two white and colored Normal Schools in New-Orleans, and the establishment of model schools in connection with them.

In distributing the prizes at the Tiverton School of Art and Science, recently, Sir Stafford Northcote remarked that of late there had been a great change in English ideas upon education. In his college days the general opinion was that as regarded science, it would be useless to teach it to Englishmen, because they could do very well without it, and that as regarded art, it was useless to try to teach it, because Englishmen were utterly devoid of taste. It had been proved, however, and was now admitted, that English poets had a taste which is quite peculiar to themselves, and they had also learned that it was absolutely necessary to teach science if England was to keep her place in the race of nations. At the present time there was the believed, great danger of the other extreme; that literature would be neglected and held in contempt. A human life cannot be made complete unless by a complete and by that was meant a judicious combination of the three great departments, literature, science and art.
